Lilly Pulitzer Adams Upholstered Settee (for you)

My relationship with Lilly Pulitzer is rather limited—my closet is composed of mostly black, for convenience of course—but that doesn't prevent me from appreciating the signature pastels of the Palm Beach brand. I was first exposed to the phenomenon that is Lilly in college, when I was met with, "wait, you don't have a Lilly Pulitzer planner?" and that pretty much sums up the iconic nature of the brand. Couple that recognition with the Pottery Barn reputation for quality, and we've got a collaboration for ages! The collection spans Pottery

Barn, PBteen and pottery barn kids, with over 100 pieces ranging in price from $16.50 to $1,099, so there's something to transform any room in the house to an instant beach bungalow.

Lilly isn't just for shift dresses and beach towels anymore, she's taking over home décor in a big way, so I did the digging to find the prettiest pieces in the collection, starting with the Lilly Pulitzer Adams Upholstered Settee. Even if you're not into the bold flamingo and coral Lilly patterns, this armless chair screams sophisticated prep, and would hold up well in a range of décor styles.
